How Much Do You Get?

THE Cumaean Sybil once offered Tarquin the Proud nine books—for a price. But the haughty ruler scorned them. She burned three of the books, and offered him the remaining six—for the same price! Again he laughed at her.

So she burned three more, and offered him the remainder for the same price she had asked for the nine!

This time, his curiosity aroused, he paid the price. The books were found to contain invaluable directions for Roman policy but, alas—they were no longer complete!

You Pay the Price— What Do You Get?

The price of a little happiness, a small success in life, is the same as the price of great happiness, renowned success. The second requires no more effort, no more time, no more brains than the first. The difference lies in the way you USE that effort and time and talent! You can work along with the merely conscious part of your mind forever and never have much to show for it. It is when you use ALL your Mind, ALL your talent, that you win the complete reward that Fate has in store for you.

THE LEGION AND BEER

Recently Dr. Clarence True Wilson made some statements re the American Legion, and its recent resolution to Congress. The Congress of the United States was asked to submit the question of having beer to drink to the individual states, and by an overwhelming majority, too. Whereat Dr. Wilson was quoted through the press of the country on the front page, as calling the boys of the American Legion "drunkards" and a lot of other things not so nice. And if Dr. Clarence True Wilson ever put his foot in it, he did that thing when he released such statements. It seems that every move the "orthodox" religionists make these days is in the wrong direction for their own interest. That means that those moves are in the right direction as far as the race as a whole goes—but certainly they are inimical to the interests of the "church" itself.

In my article in this magazine a few months ago, I alluded to certain "peaceful parsons" who publicly stated that they would not defend this country in time of war, as "parasites." Naturally the "holy brethren" got up in arms against the article. But the only thing that can be said against this particular article is that I happened to be a little ahead of the other editors in writing it. For since that time many many papers have spoken in unmistakable terms of their reactions to the stand of these "religion-peddlers," and have reiterated my statements in my own article. I stated in this article that this stand of theirs would do more to injure their own cause than anything else they could have ever done. I'm not so sure of that now though, for this dirty attack on the American Legion is about the most suicidal thing that either Dr. Wilson or the "church" could possibly have done. General Douglas MacArthur, in reply to the published statements that "peaceful parsons" would not fight for the country of their birth in time of war, stated that such a stand branded them as traitors, and denied to them the right to hold citizenship in any country. And I think he was right.

Now they come along, and just because the boys who would fight in time of war want a glass of beer, they call them "drunks," etc. Well—let me repeat, if the first statement about not defending this country in time of war hurt them, this present effulgence on the part of Saint Wilson, will certainly do more to hasten the burial day than anything else that could have happened. Now remember what I am saying here, and see how far from the truth the future proves me to be. I am not a drinking man—and I do not think at my age I shall ever be a drinking man. I never frequent pool-halls, I never gamble, nor can I be charged with any really bad "sin" of any sort that I am aware of. I am a successful business man, and in the eyes of the "camel's eyes" that probably is a sin, but just the same it cannot be charged against me that I am arguing in favor of liquor from a personal standpoint. I am not arguing in favor of liquor at all.

I think perhaps my home life is as clean and my family as beautiful as that of any "peaceful parson" or "dry christian." And certainly those who follow my writings know that I am ever to be found defending the very best things in life. I love clean living. I love healthy, clean children. I love the very finest and most beautiful things of life, and my argument here is not in favor of either beer or the saloon. If ever either of them come back it wouldn't make any difference to me, for I assure you I should never either drink or patronize the saloon. But I am opposed to any man or group of so-called "religionists" daring to tell the American Legion that they are a "bunch of common drunks." The man that made that statement killed himself—sooner or later. And it's more than likely that he stirred up the wrong hornet's nest. This sort of thing, however, goes right square back to the organization claiming to operate by virtue of "divine power of God." It goes back to the organization who would tell you and I that our beautiful little children are doomed and damned unless they subscribe to the dogmas of this "tradition" or that "tradition." It tells us that the mighty intelligence behind this universe split himself into three parts and sent one of them down to the wife of a Syrian Jew, there to pregnate her by unnatural means, and to bring forth a son which was another third of this supposed "trinity." But if you trace the history of this religious organization back, you will find that it isn't so long since it was ordering and actually burning alive at the stake, those of other faiths who would not subscribe to this "christian" doctrine.

In fact its whole past history is one horrible mess of murder, crime, bloodshed, away back as far as one cares to go. And another thing here worth mentioning in passing—there has never been known to exist one single historian who ever heard of the miraculous happenings we are told took place at both the advent and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Not a single one out of over 200 ever heard of such things. And this to me is more than conclusive proof that these alleged miracles never happened at all. The only place you can find any reference to them is in the history of the structure itself. You cannot find any allusion to them in the writings of a single historian, living and writing in that age and that time. And certainly, if the dead got up out of their graves and meandered around amongst the citizens of Jerusalem, these historians would at least have heard about it. And for this reason if for no other, I am satisfied in my own mind that the whole story is nothing more nor less than a cock-and-bull story foisted off on the unsuspecting public by this organization which asks you and I to believe that it represents "god" on this earth. But it cannot prove that statement. It cannot show its credentials. An examination of its foundations refuses to convince any thinking mind that these foundations are other than false and home-made.

And as my readers know by this time, that is exactly my stand. And if this be a fact, then these religion mongers might find something better to do than to call the American Legion "a bunch of drunks." They were not such when they were over there wallowing in the slime and filth of the first-line trenches in order to make this country safe. They would not have been denied a glass of beer then. But now, just because a gang of phoney religious salesmen try to force an unwanted law onto these patriots who did defend their country, Dr. Wilson calls them "drunks." Maybe so, Dr. Wilson, but I would rather be the dirtiest drunken sot I know of, and still be willing to fight for America, than I would to have put my signature to that dirty questionnaire, and be the biggest parson in existence. I hold a D. D. degree, but God grant the day will never come in which I ever sign such a rotten document as 64% of these P. P.'s signed.

I would rather wallow in dirt round the back door of the lowest dive that ever operated, and be willing to defend this country, than I would to occupy either Cadman's or Fosdick's or Poling's pulpit, and peddle the dope they peddle to the public, and refuse to fight for America. That's my stand and let the church and the preachers make the best of it. I am utterly convinced, ladies and gentlemen, that the time is here in which we of America are ready to utterly discard all "pagan" and "supernaturally-revealed" religion, and get down to the basic facts about the mighty God behind the universe, which of course is not, and cannot be, the god of the church, for that god is none other than old "Yah-veh," who held the conversation with the talking snake, losing the argument and then pronouncing a terrible curse on the poor snake. No—the sooner we get rid of all these hypocritical "sky-pilots" the better the world will be off. For the true light of God cannot shine while a false pagan god is being handed to us in the name of the real God as we know He exists.

As far as the beer goes—we are not interested in it. But it does go against our grain when men who are presumed to be "piloting souls to heaven" will call the American Legion "a bunch of drunks." Probably Brother Wilson is mighty sorry about now that he ever made the statement, and in closing let me say that one "drunken soldier" who is willing to fight for his country is worth ten thousand sober Peaceful Parsons who are not willing to defend their country. What do you think?

Have you sent in your membership to the Brotherhood yet?

Suppose you do that now.

PLAIN SPEAKING

Sometimes the plain speaking of the editor of this magazine is misconstrued. Only by those who do not know him and have not followed him of course. But against the "orthodox religionists," wherever our literature goes, at once they begin to rave and tear their hair and pronounce us to be an infidel, atheist, and many other not nice things. We lose no sleep over it at all, but we cannot help feel what a demonstration this is of the ignorance of those whose lives have been blighted by religious superstition. The attitude is taken that the truths of God, as revealed by the "church," shall stand "firm as the rock of ages." Ministers oppose us and think by doing so they are placing stumbling blocks in our path. Nothing is farther from the truth, however, than that. Had these good brethren the sense and the fairness to see that possibly someone else does who not belong to their organization might have a little light on subjects religious, then there would be some hope for them.

But there can be no hope as long as they take the attitude that by no possible means can anything religious change. If the stand is taken that there was only once a revelation of God given to man, and they claim that their organization received this one revelation, then I must not only disagree with them, but pity them for their crass ignorance and superstition. For if these religious gentlemen have an idea that they have the last word of truth, then they are very badly mistaken, I can assure them of that. For in the first place they are running around like a bunch of hens with their heads cut off, and not knowing which way to turn to keep their heads above water. The daily papers are full of the statements of the heads of the various religious denominations, which statements very plainly show them to be lost—utterly lost. The Rev. Trexler, of New York City, president of the United Lutheran Synod of America, said at their annual convention recently, "The church is limping along waiting for another Moses to lead it into the light." At about the same time, Dr. Albert W. Beavan, president of the Northern Baptist convention, made this statement: "The churches are far from Christ now." This good brother never spoke a truer word in his life. The church has never known very much about Christ anyhow, and certainly it never has known anything about the Living God—the mighty Life Spirit which caused this created scheme of things to be, and which gave life to every one of us. The church has never known anything about that Power.

It knows all about old "Yah-veh," the tribal god of the Jews, which god rained rocks out of the sky, and drowned all of his creation like rats in a trap. It knows all about the god that held an argument with a talking snake, losing the argument and then pronouncing a terrible curse on the poor snake. It knows all about the god who loves bloody and burning sacrifice, as evidenced by its own actions in burning thousands and tens of thousands alive down through the ages. But it has never known the power of the True God. And it never will until it discards all idolatrous and pagan religious teachings so-called, which teachings by the way, should never be called religious for they are as heathen as they can possibly be.

The editor of this magazine knows these things. He is not afraid to speak his mind on the subject either. And this plain speaking is very naturally causing a lot of commotion in the ranks of the "orthodox." That's good. For this outfit cannot stand the light of day on their teachings. And they know it. And they know it won't do to have anyone drag the entire structure into the light, and show men and women, thinking men and women on what it is founded. They know that when that happens, its day of power is over.

And so they get very much upset when they hear of our activities in telling the people the real truth of God. They don't like us to tell people over the radio that the heads of two of the biggest Protestant denominations ordered the burning alive of "heretics," which means those of other faiths, not many hundred years ago. They don't like the public to be told that their organizations are founded on the preachments of such men. But they are. And in the very sure swing of time, such doctrines and teachings are most surely doomed—as they should be.

The fact that they don't like my plain speaking is the very best evidence that I am speaking the truth. And if I am speaking the truth, I am not destroying religion but am building it up. For as long as any pagan god is masquerading as the True God, then there can be no light or help to anyone ever to follow in the pathway of such teachings. And the church god is a pagan god. There can be no question of that. You and I both know that he did not spit in the mud and make a man, etc., etc., etc. We know those stories are not true. We also know that the Christian Bible is not by a million miles the divinely inspired word of the Living God. It may be, and probably is, the "divinely inspired word" of old "Yah-veh," but it so happens that old "Yah-veh" is not the creator of this universe. For old "Yah-veh" did things which the mighty creator of the universe never could do. So the church must not try to tell people any more that they have "the only true god." Such a statement is a lie and is easily proven to be such. It is hardly possible to read Mr. Wheless's two books "Forgery in Christianity," and "Is It God's Word," and ever again believe in the Bible as the divinely inspired word of God. Not much. There is too much forgery shown up in those works for that. Also "The Bible Unmasked," by Joseph Lewis. Also my own book, "America Awakening." You can't read those books—dynamite books—and ever again believe that this old pagan Bible is the divinely inspired word of God. For it is not.

And all over this universe we see not only men and women, but nations, slowly and surely shoving off all supernaturally revealed religion. And this is as it should be for there never was a system of supernaturally revealed religion yet that was true. In Spain, in Italy, in Russia, in Mexico, in South America, and in Turkey we see a very definite and positive pushing away from all divine religion. Good. When men and women push away from that sort of poppy-cock, then are they liable to find out something about God as He actually exists. But they will certainly never find him as long as impossible, unreasonable, and utterly idolatrous stories are handed out to us in the name of religion. Plain speaking?—that's what the country wants. And the "Moses" that Dr. Trexler said the world needed will probably not come through the ranks of the church. He will come through some other agency utterly opposed to the church. This is as it should be of course. For the admission that the church is "limping along" is a very frank admission that its doctrines are false and if they are false they are fraudulent also. So no new revelation of God ever could come through the present church system. No—my friend—the revelation is not only coming, it's here. And according to the church it is coming through "an infidel." O.K. then. We don't care how it comes just as long as it comes. And when it comes the world at large, as our thousands of students, will know it. May God hasten the day when the last jot and tittle of "religious superstition" surrounding his name is once and forever banished. The editor of this magazine doing his little part to try and banish it, in order that the True God may be known.

FAITH

Many people write and ask us why they cannot find or contact power of the Living God. They have studied this and they have studied that. Some of them even studied "PSYCHIANA" and still they claim not to be able to contact or find the mighty Power we teach. They can mentally grasp all of our instructions, but they do not seem to be able to actually get the results. Not all of course are like this, but from time to time such letters continue to drift in to us.

We feel sorry for such cases, for if ever a system of religious instruction was plainly and simply written, then ours is. I do not see how it would be possible to put the simple rules any more plainly than we have done. The real reason, however, that there are those who cannot see the light, is probably because of the effects of hereditary teaching on them. You know, in both of my little children, I see strains of characteristics which are prominent in myself. Both of the little fellows have a birth-mark on the back of the neck. The mother has this same birthmark. Then again one outstanding characteristic of both these sweet little things, is their firmness of mind and will. When their mind is made up to do something, they come pretty near doing it. This they come by honestly too. Then the looks in the face. One can very easily see their mother's and my features in their little faces.

So it is reasonable to suppose also, that the strains and tendencies of race beliefs of probably thousands of years are very firmly imbedded in their little lives. And, it being a fact that for centuries, this "christian religion" has been propagated by our parents, and by their parents back of them, and so on, it is only reasonable to expect that it is an integral part of the lives of those who have been reared in that attitude. Now—this Christian religion teaches that you and I were born in sin and shapen in iniquity. Which is a lie for that matter—but this Christian religion teaches it just the same. It teaches also that there is no hope for us outside of the shed blood of Jesus Christ. Which is another lie. In fact, everything it has to offer teaches that man is a guilty, lost, hell-deserving sinner, doomed to eternal damnation unless he does something the church tells him to. It's all a bunch of hooey for that matter, but it has been earnestly and conscientiously believed for generations.

Those beliefs I say, are ingrained into one's nature in spite of himself, and it will take several generations to get them all out. When they do get out though, look out for fireworks, for men and women then will be in the grip of the Life Principle which gave them their existence in the first place, and, playing the game with God, they will certainly overcome in life, and there is no telling where men and women will not go, when they learn the power of this Mighty Life Spirit—GOD.

Now—it being a fact that inbred into man's nature, through the pagan teachings of the church, it is a very pronounced complex, it is, in many cases, hard to believe that God is not the type he has been pictured to be. It is very hard for some people to utterly discard the "original sin" idea, and I am very frank to say that until every last vestige of that dogma has gone, it is almost impossible to find the real God. I make it very plain at the beginning of my course, that it is imperative that my students discard all preconceived notions of God, and this is the reason. Just as long as this race tendency of inferiority remains, then of course it will be hard for some people to understand that the Living Law actually works.

Then again, there are a great majority of these students of mine, who experience no difficulty at all in recognizing the mighty power and presence of God, and these of course have no doubts at all.

They have "faith" in the Law—and—it naturally works. For the one thing necessary to bring into operation the Law of God, is to first recognize its presence. Then recognize its power. Then recognize the fact that automatically, when this Law of faith is complied with, the answer is sure. Just as sure as sure can be. Take one of my little fellows—little Alfred for instance. Yesterday, on coming home from school for lunch, he said to me, "Daddy—did a large package come to your office for me?" I told the little fellow that no such package had arrived. "Well, will you bring it home as soon as it comes?" the little fellow asked. "Of course I will," I told him, and the matter will never be mentioned again by Alfred to me. He knows, and he knows beyond any shadow of a doubt that if a package comes to him I will bring it home.

He knows I will because I said I would. And as far as he is concerned the matter is once and forever settled. If the package comes he will get it. I will bring it home. Now Alfie does not know when the package will arrive, or whether it will arrive at all or not. I do not know myself what package he is talking about. But he does know that if a package arrives for him, he will get it because he has my word.

There is the simple little trusting faith which absolutely brings the answer. And the only sort of faith that brings the answer. Can you have such a confidence in this mighty Life Spirit that you can trust Him that way? Perhaps the race tendencies and their doctrines of "original sin" are too firmly imbedded. But you know the truth, and your eyes are opened. So there should be no need of your doubting Him any more. You may have to practice and think a lot along this line before you are at the place where you will recognize this great spiritual Law—God. But it is worth the effort, for once the faith is in existence—once the connection is made—it can never be broken.

So much falsity has been attached to the word "faith" that it is mighty hard to put the real definition to it. To me it just means unquestioned trust in anything. If Alfred or Mrs. R. calls me up at my office and tells me that either one of them will meet me here, I immediately begin to look for them, for I know, and know positively that they will be here. What a fool I would be, after having received such a phone call, I began to say, "Well now—I wonder if they really will be here? Somehow or other, I'd like to believe it, but maybe they won't come," etc. You see how foolish that would be, don't you. Well, the same way with God. He has given us life and put us on this earth, and the answer to the whole problem lies right here in our midst and will be given to the world some day, perhaps soon, by someone who has found real faith and trust. How can you develop faith—well—to some it is a hard job and is only done through many hard knocks. Many never find it, and go down to the tomb in utter ignorance of the power of God, even though they be deacons in some church or other. They might even be ministers of "the gospel" and still never know anything about either God or faith in God.

I like to get lessons in faith from my little Florence, now just 8 months old. She's a sweet little bugger, and I like to put her on the floor where she crawls around like a little bug. Then she will stick her first finger in her mouth and wet it, and then look for the tiniest speck on the floor, and into her mouth it goes if we don't watch her closely. But what I am getting at is this: I will be sitting in my arm-chair watching the little mass of humanity, and I will say to her, "Florence—come to Daddy," and will open my hands toward her. The sweet little face will light up with a smile of Heaven, and the little thing will immediately begin to paddle her way across the floor to me. That's faith. And faith in a tiny child. I called her—and she came. When she gets hungry she lets us know and is fed. Never for one moment does the question of not being fed enter into her little mind. She knows she will be. And so with you and I all through life. The power capable of creating such a scheme as this is, has, in itself, the power of eternal life, and also has the power to give to you and I whatever is necessary for our happiness. How about trusting God a little from now on?

LET'S GO

Recently there appeared in the Spokesman-Review, the leading daily newspaper of the Inland Empire, and published at Spokane, Wash., a letter written to that paper by a small country ladies aid society, protesting vigorously the radio broadcasts I am giving weekly. Reference was made to the society's "blood-bought religion," and several backhanded compliments were handed to me by one signing himself or herself "Zigler"—Recording Secretary. I was alluded to as a "blatant upstart," etc., knowing nothing at all, and according to the picture painted, it's a wonder that God lets such a man live.

At any rate, the letter had no sooner appeared than those in sympathy with me began to write to the paper also. I think the percentage of letters published in that campaign of hate, was about eight to one in my favor. At any rate, I am advised that this "Zigler" person was mighty sorry he or she started an argument which they could not and did not finish. Letters began to pour into my office and into the radio station, and at the last checking, 96% of these letters were in favor of the broadcasts, and the other 4% of course were opposed to them.

When this party alluded to her "blood-bought religion," she put her foot in the hole for sure. For she could not have used a more damning argument against whatever system of religion she is professing. Blood-bought is right. For both Calvin and Luther, the heads of two of the largest Protestant organizations in existence today, shed lots of blood in their time, trying to put over their damnable doctrines and dogmas. You will remember of course the case of poor Servetus. He made the statement that Judea was a barren land, whereas the Bible said it was a land flowing with milk and honey. So Brother Calvin had him "put to death as mercifully as possible, and without the shedding of blood," which meant that he was to be burned alive at the stake.

For two hours they slowly toasted this poor soul over a fire of green sticks, while he begged them in horrifying shrieks to pile on the fuel and end his awful agony. And this was only one case. There were tens and perhaps hundreds of thousands of them just like that. And remember this, reader, these men and women were brutally tortured to death by the very organizations existing today and masquerading as agents of God. It cannot be denied that Luther and Calvin founded Protestantism, nor can it be denied that the "Holy Inquisitions" were ordered by the Roman Catholic church. And both of these systems of religion are with us today and they are the self-same organizations who ordered these bloody murders committed in the name of God. I suggest to this brother or sister of the Moran Prairie Ladies Aid, that he or she read up a little on profane history and find out in what a quagmire of murder and crime their "blood-bought religion" is founded.

For centuries now, the church, both Catholic and Protestant, has religiously kept the true facts of church history, including these bloody murders from their "flocks of sheep," so naturally the poor animals could not know the true facts of the matter. But the day is here in which the entire structure will be exposed. And your writer will have both hands in the exposing of it. You can imagine how it sits with the pious priests and prating parsons (64% of which have gone on record as stating that they will not defend their country in time of war) to have me get up before the mike and tell hundreds of thousands of people that the four gospels are easily proven forgeries. You can imagine how it plants a bombshell right at the root of their forged structure, when I tell the general public that there does not exist, nor has there ever been known to exist, one single original manuscript covering their story. You can imagine how they like it when I inform the public that out of about 300 authentic histories of that country, written at first hand by men who lived there, not a single one of them ever heard of or makes mention of either Jesus Christ or the supposed resurrection, or any other of the unusual stories you and I are asked to believe 2,000 years later.

And the funny part of it all is that you and I are asked to believe such stories without the slightest scintilla of evidence that they ever happened. All the argument the "church" has is that millions of people believe their preachments. Well, that's no argument at all. The only reason they say they believe them is because they have been taught these impossible yarns from childhood up. They have just been honest enough not to doubt what their parents told them as coming from God. I did it—and so did you. The difference between me and the "sheep" is that there came a time in my life when I began to question the veracity of these teachings. And the more I questioned and examined them, the more false did I find them to be. Had the church been able to offer the tiniest little bit of direct evidence, then it would have been a different story. But the only thing it has is the Bible, which, on analysis is proven very easily to be a stupendous church forgery. Yes—I said a stupendous church forgery.

The book never was more than a compilation of books, written by the church itself, without any evidence, and foisted on you and I as a "divinely revealed" volume. As a matter of fact, the Bible, in every book, is a very palpable and easily proven church forgery, as every student of these same scriptures knows. There has ever followed in the wake of this book and its teachings, bloodshed, murder, rape, incest, and everything that's horrible. And it couldn't be otherwise when the god the book teaches began his earthly reign with a curse on a talking snake, and continued it with a series of wholesale murders, the like of which the world has never seen nor heard of. And still following in the wake of the "super-human" book, and less than 400 years ago too, we find still the same bloody murderings and butcherings being carried on in the name of God, and by those who profess to be his followers. And the pity of it all is that we allow this same organization, telling us these rotten yarns, to hold its property tax-free. We give it privileges no other corporation can enjoy, and millions of dollars of taxes are not paid annually which should be paid, because this organization tells us that it is an agent of God. Probably a self-appointed agent. For it cannot produce any credentials to that effect.

I make the statement here and now, and challenge successful contradiction, that the church, with its doctrines and dogmas, is the greatest piece of religious humbuggery and quackery this world has ever seen. And there will be no real knowledge of God as He exists universally known until every priest and preacher is laid under the sod. Not a single thing can be said in favor of the dogmas, when the organization is viewed in the light of its past history. Not a single word of evidence or proof can it bring forth. All it can do is to ask you and me to believe blindly what it tells us to believe, and ask no questions about it. That's what it has been doing for ages past. But that's what it is not going to do any more. For the moving finger has written, and, having written has moved on. And do you know what the moving finger "writ"? Let me tell you—it wrote the word "Ichabod" all over the phoney and false church structure in letters as red as red can be. For if ever there was any glory attached to the church, it certainly is gone. I question very much though if there ever was much other than murder and bloodshed attached to it.

These are pretty plain statements, but the time is here when plain speaking is the one thing needed—especially when dealing with heathen superstition. And the religious element may howl and rave to their hearts content. I know what I am talking about, and I know, and you should know, that there has never been the slightest scrap of evidence in proof of such a cock-and-bull story as this same church asks us to believe. And the sooner the facts of it all are pulled out into the light, then the sooner will men and women begin to know something of the Living God as He exists.

The sooner the old church "skeletons" are pulled out of the cupboard and given a good airing, the sooner will men and women be able to intelligently make up their own minds as to whether or not this Bible story is true or false. To date what we have been asked to do is to accept it, and that without question. Now, however, we are not going to do that any more. We are going to find out. At least I am. For that matter, I have already found out, and am perfectly satisfied that the whole thing is a lot of hooey. But I am also satisfied that there exists a God, who is certainly not the church God, which God can, and will, and does, give to everyone who complies with the law, everything right and proper for happiness, health, and success in this life.

And to the priests, preachers, religious organizations of all kinds, I say "Let's Go." If you want any argument with me, then pick out your best man, put him on the platform with me, and if I don't effectively expose the fakery and fraud which has ever attended the "church" system, then I shall probably quit this work altogether. But there is little danger of any churchman meeting me on the lecture platform, for the simple reason that a story which cannot be proven falls unrefuted. It needs no refuting for it cannot be proven. And that is exactly where the church stands today. And to my students all over the world I say, leave it alone. Don't support it and don't attend it. Its death is but a matter of a short time as it is operating now. Either that or it will, if it can, find the real God, and when that happens, oh, what a hollow sham will its "I believe God father almighty maker heaven-earth Jesus Christ only son our Lord" seem then.

When the true light of the Living God begins to break in the church, if it ever does, and when the last jot and tittle of pagan and idolatrous superstition is once and forever banished, then shall men and women be able to bask in the sunshine of the love of the real God—the God the church never has known anything about.

Aimee still occupies the headlights. This time husband. She says, "love came in on silver wings." Well—we only hope that love doesn't soon fly out on wings, taking some of the silver with it. And we hope Aimee has found another "what a man."

What a sorry mess the "Christian church" is today. Like a ship without a rudder. Drifting helplessly without a captain. And all because it insists on hanging onto old murdering "Yah-veh," the tribal god of the Jews. Why will it not be honest and admit that it does not know who or what its own god is.

OUR RADIO WORK

The radio lectures delivered by Dr. Robinson are attracting very great attention, and are causing considerable comment for and against. Most of the letters, however, (about 96%) are very heartily in favor of the broadcasts, and the other 4% we know where they come from and so are not too disturbed over them. One of the most remarkable things about the broadcasting of lectures like Dr. Robinson delivers, is the amazing interest they create, and the avidity with which his listeners drink in every word broadcasted.

With his usual and very characteristic plain-spoken manner, Dr. Robinson cuts pretty close to the line and he does not seem to care where the chips fall. He calls a spade a spade, and not a rake or a hoe. Facts concerning both the Bible and present day religion are presented, and very often these facts hurt very much those who are still operating under the garb of orthodox theology. Naturally such facts would hurt. But the most amazing thing of all is the swarm of letters we receive stating that the writer has suspected this message of Dr. Robinson's for a long time. Hundreds of letters have come to us in this strain, and it seems as if all the world is waiting for is some man with courage and ability enough to take the bull by the horns and go over the air, telling people the actual facts and the truth about both the Bible and religion. Dr. Robinson evidently is that man, and we predict that this movement will sooner or later be world-wide. For we of "PSYCHIANA" have a leader who has a big picture. Peanut ventures do not interest him, and he will never rest until the world has discarded the old pagan myths, and come into a knowledge of the mighty power of the Living God.

Of course, the "organized church," both Catholic and Protestant, are up in arms, and are doing everything in their power to take the doctor off the air. They may do it, although we doubt it. At any rate they are trying, and we suppose they have a little power left yet. Not much, however, for the day is near when the church is a dead issue in either the political or religious life of this nation. And as soon as the public know the facts about the church, it will be a much deader issue if possible. Just as long as the organization is allowed to masquerade as an "agent of God" then so long will it masquerade. But when someone arises who can show it to be nothing of the sort, and can produce proof that it is nothing of the sort, then will men and women see what it really is, and it won't take very long then for it to be ready for the undertaker.

Let our government once make the church produce proof of its "divine" origin, and it's licked. For this it cannot do. But just as long as it gets its property tax free, then of course it will continue to expect it tax free. Every church organization in existence should be made to pay taxes just like anyone else pays them. And until it can produce some proofs of its "divine" origin, then it should be treated as any other corporation is treated. For there is no difference at all. Note the trend of the times, will you? In Spain, in Italy, in Turkey, in Russia, in Mexico, in South America, and in fair North America, there is a gradual pushing off of all supernaturally revealed religion. People are on to the thing, and they don't want any more of it. All it is good for is to keep a bunch of priests and parsons existing without working, and then on top of that, it blinds the minds of the people to the true God as he exists.

The radio work, however, will progress and will be expanded. A pipe-organ has been installed in Dr. Robinson's home, and in the future the programs will be broadcast by remote control with Dr. Robinson opening the program with an organ solo. Then will follow a 15-minute lecture, and then another organ solo. Another talk will be given and another organ solo will conclude the program. This will probably be a very attractive program, for the organ is the only residence pipe organ in the whole Inland Empire.

The organ is a very beautiful one, and has been installed in the basement of Dr. Robinson's home while the console is in the living room. Dr. Robinson has a passion for pipe organ music, and his best moments and his best thoughts come while idling at the keyboards. We feel sure that our new series of programs will be well received, and those living in the vicinity of Spokane and the Inland Empire are invited to comment on the programs. We would like to be able to extend the broadcast nationally, and that day will probably come. But it cannot be for some time yet, unless of course some wealthy person takes a notion to father it, in which case we will do what we want to do in short order.

This is a wonderful opportunity for us, and will probably be as interesting a program as is on the air. In the meantime, inquiries continue to come in, and practically every student writes us very fine letters about our instruction. All this world needs is to know the truth about religion and God. It needs to know that what is offered to us today by the church, is nothing more nor less than pagan and idolatrous superstition. Then, when this untrue teaching has been utterly and universally discarded, men and women will automatically cast about for a real God, and will find Him. The mightiest power in the universe—the Life Spirit—the Living God, whom to know is life eternal.

THE BROTHERHOOD

When a little more than one year ago, I gave the world "PSYCHIANA," little did I suspect that the teaching was very soon to be known all over the civilized world. It had taken me an entire lifetime to see something of the mighty and all-sufficient power behind the universe, and to arrive at the place where I was willing to stake my all on the mighty power of the Master Intelligence—God. But we stepped out on the promises one day, and with a faith that meant do or die—we did.

Business came to us in an amount absolutely unexpected, and now, just a little over one year later, we have our own magazine in existence, two books have come from our pen, our articles appear in several national monthlies, and the large course is going all over the world. Some criticism has been hurled at me by those who would oppose this work. I have been called a "shylock" and the whole teaching has been dubbed a "money-making scheme." Preachers have gone on the air and spent their whole sermon hour telling the world what a terrible man I am. The statement has been made that all one had to do was sign on the dotted line, and a short-cut to heaven would be provided by me. That is what the "peaceful parsons" who would not defend their country in time of war, say—and it's about what we would expect from such individuals—if one can call them that.

Nevertheless—we have always offered our students their money back in 45 days if they were not absolutely satisfied, and that is more than the "peaceful parsons" do. I have not even taken the time nor the effort to reply to these criticisms, for the fact that they are attacking me is ample proof that I am hitting them in a vital spot. They seem to sense that I mean business, and they also sense the world-wide sympathy given me. They know, and they know full well, that such asinine doctrines and dogmas as they sell to poor dupes, are having difficulty in finding a ready market any more. People listen to what they have to say, and then, with a sort of supercilious smile, they turn away and go somewhere else where they may find something which satisfies them. It might be a picture show. It might be something else. At any rate, by the thousands, men and women are analyzing the positively false doctrines the church is teaching, and as these forged and fraudulent teachings are being traced to their origin, men and women are waking up, and wondering at the audacity of pious priests and prating parsons, who for so long have handed to them in the name of religion, something as false as hell itself is false.

People are getting wise to the thing. They are very suspicious of everyone who wears his collar backwards, or who parades around with a cross in his or her hand. For the fuse of doubt has been lighted. It may be a long fuse, but it has been lighted, and sooner or later will lead to the keg of dynamite placed solidly under the church system, and sooner or later there will be a terrible explosion. In the meantime, all the pious and prating priests and parsons, can do is to hurl epithets at my head, and grit their teeth and scheme some way or other to shut me out. For they certainly cannot buy me off; but they find a different story when they come around with it and try to get me to quit. They find that after all, it is not money that I am interested in. And they wonder.

At any rate, there has always been one thing which has jarred on me to some extent, and that is the fact that their claims that I was only after the money might be given some credence by those unacquainted with me or my writings. The fact that $27.50 was charged for our teaching, had a tendency to lend color to the report that money was the controlling factor in our life. So I tried hard to think out some scheme whereby I could get away from that angle of it. I wanted to be able to give my teachings away at a nominal cost if possible. And I have found the way.

That way is the Brotherhood, and it is already working like a charm. In the Brotherhood, a very small membership is charged, and we have also monthly dues of $2.00. The members, as long as they are in good standing, receive every two weeks, one Lecture or Lesson from me, and in addition to that from time to time, I shall call their attention to world events which are of more than passing interest to every member.

No contract will need to be signed, and anyone may quit their membership at any time, if they want to. This is going to be a mighty big thing, and it will not be long before we have members by the thousands, and probably by the ten thousands. If we get much more publicity in the papers, and if our radio talks continue to hold the breathless interest they seem to be holding now, well—it won't be long until we have possibly one hundred thousand members.

Taken all in all, I am very happy over the Brotherhood, and just know what a wonderful success it is going to be. The Lessons are entirely different from the large course, and where the large course stopped, the Brotherhood Lessons begin. It is a lot of work to do all this alone, but we are very happy in our work, and especially in the wonderful letters which continue to pour in on us, as our students find God. It's a blessed work, and a blessed experience—trusting and proving this mighty Life spirit—and we are happy in it. We do not get very much relaxation, but we get enough to keep the brain functioning fairly well, and enough to keep us in good shape to defend our stand against those who are fighting a useless fight on a losing side—the side of old-fashioned, pagan, idolatrous superstition.

Last Sunday night I listened over the radio to one of the parsons who wears his collar backwards, and who spent his entire sermon hour not so long ago in telling his flock of sheep ("sheep" is "right") what a terrible monster I am. The church is an Episcopal Cathedral, and it broadcasts its performance to those who are dead enough to listen to it, every Sunday night. After having heard this wrongly collared brother open with a hymn, a regular liturgical rigmarole was then gone through, which sounded something like this: "Ibelieveingodfather-amightymakerofheavenandearthandinJesue-Christhisonlysonourlordbornholygastsufferedpontiusspilate," etc.

That comedy has been gone through now for hundreds of years, and not a single soul uttering it believed a word of it. But it is what is dished out in that building as the religion of Jesus Christ. Well it's no such thing. It is the very thing that Jesus Christ cursed at while on the earth. You will remember, he called them "whited sepulchres"—"Scribes and Pharisees—hypocrites," and how well he knew what He was talking about. And yet—there are thousands of people in this country who will donate both their time and their cash to help along such a cause as that is. Think of it. The earth has four corners. It's flat. God spit in the mud and made a man. Took a rib and made a woman. Had an argument with a talking snake, and then pronounced a terrible curse on the poor snake which, incidentally, won the argument. And that is the sort of god that this individual Episcopal Cathedral is offering to its "sheep" to believe in. Yes—I think the word "sheep" is well chosen.

However, the Brotherhood will very effectively expose all such balderdash as that, and in the place of old pagan "Yah-veh" will substitute in the hearts and lives of men and women, something of the mighty love and power of the real God behind the universe. Not the god who killed 50,070 men, women and children at one lick for trying to look into a little wooden box called the "ark" in which this old god lived, but the mighty pulsating, throbbing Life Spirit, who caused the world to be in the first place, and who moment by moment sustains it in the second place. Your little life, my friend, is a part of that great life, and the secret of it all is not above the skies, but is right here on earth. And the secret lies in the mind and heart through the operations of the mighty Life Principle itself. Never forget that. The law is that faith in the law and recognition of its power, automatically brings the law into play. I want my readers to see that. God is "spirit" and "spirit" is life capable of existence without bodily form. This great pulsating Spirit, operates every time the faith and the recognition of its presence is made known.

The Brotherhood, however, will go very fully into all phases of this mighty God, and those of our students who take the large course of instruction, will be very eager to continue their studies in the Brotherhood. For no ground will be covered that was covered in the large course. It is entirely different. I speak a good deal plainer in the Brotherhood than I did in the big course, and that's plain enough. But my friends, I am absolutely convinced that the time is here in which men and women want to know, and should know the truth of the cock-and-bull story that has been handed to us in the name of the religion of God, and by the church. I am prepared to prove that 90% of what the church is telling us about God is false. And I am also prepared to prove that there is in existence a God that the church never heard of, and consequently can know nothing about. And before we get through, it's more than likely that our God, who really exists now, will very effectively silence the old Jewish tribal god "Yah-veh." For this murdering monster never had any existence.

So I invite every reader of this magazine to send me their application for membership in the "PSYCHIANA" BROTHERHOOD. I shall give you all I have to give, and it will be my best too. If any religious brethren see this article, and feel rather bitter towards me, I ask them to remember that the only god they ever knew was the bible god, who, in turn, never was other than pagan "Yah-veh." I suggest that every preacher and priest join this Brotherhood, for I shall shoot straight from the shoulder, and shall actually show my members how to find and use the greatest power in existence—the power of God.

DEAD BONES LIVING AGAIN

Naturally, there has been considerable commotion stirred up among the "elect" over the activities of the founder of "PSYCHIANA" and the editor of this magazine. That is but natural. My book, "AMERICA AWAKENING," is proving to be a dynamite bomb placed squarely under the very center of all of the orthodox beliefs, and the "elect" are very wrathful at me. When I first went on the air over KHQ and KOL that certainly did bring down the wrath of the "faithful" on my head. Ministerial Associations, etc., began to know that I was on the earth, and on investigating a little they found that I was a real honest-to-God he-man who never bluffed nor took a bluff. They found out that I was desperately in earnest in blowing the false and fraudulent out of religion, and they found out further that I know approximately just how much of it was false and fraudulent. (Nearly all of it.) This set them to thinking, and, as ever, when a star appears on the horizon, or a new comet, which star or comet threatens destruction, they began to move uneasily in their easy chairs, and they began to wonder what their next move should be. These "Yah-veh mongers," sob-sisters, and ecclesiastical parasites began to tell their people what a terrible man I was in attempting to attack the "church" and the Christian religion. They said this—they said that. Even in this godly little town of Moscow although the feeling has never been warm to us and ours, we noticed that it underwent a distinct change for the colder, and even those who took our money heretofore, showed evidence of their great dissatisfaction with our methods. They, of course, are very ardent and prominent members—prominent as far as they can be prominent in a town of this size—and our very plain spoken attitude and our ability to prove our statements did not and does not sit so well. But just as long as people are talking about us I am satisfied, be it good or be it bad—if I can keep them talking, and preferably knocking me—I am abundantly satisfied, and shall make a bigger success in the future than I have in the past. And in order that there may be no mistake in my attitude, let me here repeat that I charge, and can prove if you please, that this organization called the "church" and operating here as it claims by a special dispensation from "God"—old "Yah-veh" that is—is nothing more nor less than another old pagan system of religious superstition, having its birth in a dark, uncivilized age, and thriving then, and still trying to thrive (very unsuccessfully) on the superstition and ignorance of their followers. Either they are scared that when they die they will go to "hell" or they are afraid that they will lose their "souls if they don't believe." I make the further claim, and can prove this also, that there isn't a single original manuscript in existence which would tend to prove that what were supposed to be the "divine words of God" were such. For if ever I have read a mass of forgery, insane and utterly impossible fraudulent stories, then the Bible contains them. The whole thing as I see it is nothing more nor less than a mass of superstitious fraud—superstitious paganism—superstitious impossibilities, and every man and woman who is contributing to the support of the institution is, in my opinion, helping to throw a cloud of paganism in the eyes of the people, and is blinding their eyes to the true God by attempting to substitute the mythical God of the Bible in His place. That's what I charge, with many more things, and there can be no mistake about what I mean, can there? I am not saying that these poor, deluded dupes who peddle their way to "church" every Sunday know that they are being fed pagan superstition, but I am saying that what they are being fed is just that and no more. For there isn't a single scrap of evidence in existence, and never has been, that the Bible they use ever had anything to do with God. It was not written by God—nor was it written by "holy men of God." That's what they called themselves as they still do, but as a matter of historical fact, let me repeat there has never been known to exist one single original manuscript which we should be willing to accept if there were such, that this Bible ever was anything else than a human compilation of impossible and allegorical acts, committed by men, written by men, and now foolishly believed by men. Not one single original record. The people don't know that, however. They think that they are studying an English copy of authentic records when as a matter of fact no authentic record has ever been known to exist! No one knows where these old Mss. came from but it is positively known that they did not come into existence until nearly 200 years after the time of Christ. At the time of Christ's life (if he ever lived at all) he was not looked upon as other than a man. These old Mss. which were found in the hands of the "early church" and which probably wrote them, were many in number. Hundreds of these old papers came into existence and over a period of a thousand years. In fact the doctrine of salvation and damnation, with this present Bible, was not given to the world until 1647 A. D. What do you think of that? And it was a group of men who voted on it, and it was a group of men that decided which of these old pagan papers should be inspired and which should not be so "inspired." The punctilious parsons won't tell you that. Nor will they tell you that out of the hundreds and hundreds of these old papers, the majority of them were rejected and dismissed from entrance into the "canon" because the old "fathers" said that the people wouldn't believe them. And they are right. Only a very few hundred years ago, John Calvin, the founder of Calvinism, caused Servetus to be slowly roasted to death before a slow fire of green sticks, because he said that Ptolmey said that the land of Judea was a barren wilderness, whereas the Bible said that it was a land flowing with milk and honey. And in vain did this helpless old man beg and entreat and attempt to explain that he was only quoting what Ptolmey the historian said. In vain did he attempt to tell these "Christians" that he was not disputing their god. But it was useless. And amid the scorching, searing flames was heard the voice of Servetus, pleading with these men of God, John Calvin included, to pile on the fagots in the name of their common god, and to put an end to his awful agony. And the "christians"—the same children of god—worshipping the same god today, if you please, danced round in glee as the soul of this old man struggled to leave his toasted body. And when we consider that 50,070 men were struck dead by the same god for touching or looking into the little wooden box wherein god lived, we can readily understand how these "mighty men of god—including John Calvin, the founder of Calvinism, danced in glee as they "followed in the footsteps of the master." Even John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, said that witches should be burned alive and was present at the burning of them. And the history of the Inquisitions, not over 200 years ago yet, is replete with the bloody and awful tales of agonies and cruel tortures inflicted by the "church" on those of another religion. God Almighty alone knows just how many were tortured like this. The point I make is this—and get me right please—this same church structure we have with us today was founded by Wesley and Calvin and by others who, a few hundred years ago, and mighty few at that, burned alive at the stake hundreds and thousands in the name of the same god they worship today. And it is impossible to contradict me on this history (not divine history) but true history tells the story.

Think of it, folks—all you have to do is use your head a little. Not a single MSS. in existence would prove that God ever had anything to do with this bible or this religious structure. In fact the god of the bible never existed and I can prove it. And furthermore I can prove that this present "church" structure is nothing more nor less than a relic of pagan superstition and barbarism, unfit for the United States of America today. And the priests and parsons may rave and howl to their hearts content—I denounce here and now the entire caboodle of them as representatives of a pagan system of superstition which they can't prove to be true, and which I can prove is utterly false and pagan to the core. John Wesley, while in this country attempting to convert Indians in America, of which task by the way he made a dismal failure, said: "I came to America to convert the Indians—but who is going to convert me. I think—if the gospel be true I am safe—but what if the gospel be not true?" And this same John Wesley was instrumental in the torture of witches, allowing them to be burned alive by fire, and if every Methodist would read the volumes I possess on John Wesley, they wouldn't have so much use for their foolish religion as they have now. Wesley—Calvin, and others of their ilk—burning to death helpless and innocent women and babes less than 400 years ago, and all in the name of God. What a bunch to found any system of religion. And once more I say to every member of every orthodox church in existence—whether you know it or not, your entire structure was founded in heathen and pagan superstition in the lap of the dark ages, and the entire structure is a religious farce, false to the core, heathen to the core, and the greatest stumbling block in the path of spiritual enlightenment this world has even seen. And if this copy of this magazine gets into the hands of some good church member, then I suggest that he show it to the "shepherd of the flock" and ask him whether or not I am telling the truth. He will tell you "yes" but he will tell you that this is not done any more. Of course it isn't. But it would be if the "church" had its way. For old "Yah-veh" is unchangeable, and if the smell of searing burning flesh was acceptable to him then, it certainly is now also. And the point to remember here now is that the very fundamental creeds which this "church" structure is supposed to believe today, had their origin in a day and age when the above-mentioned happenings actually happened. And therefore any system of religion founded on such horrible crimes as the "church" is responsible for, cannot be and is not a true system of religion. Nor can any such system know anything about the true God as He actually exists. All they have is the old Jewish tribal God which never had any existence, and therefore, I once more claim that every church-member in America, having a membership in any "orthodox" church, is subscribing to a pagan system of theology which has been responsible for more murder, more crime, more suffering, more bloodshed, than any other organization that ever existed. Makes no difference if it happened a few hundred years ago—the origin is the same—there has been no change of "Yah-vehs" and though the church may try to hide these facts—I know them—and I'm going to see that everyone else knows them also before I get through. For until such hellish doctrines of the devil are once and forever discarded, then by no possible means can whatever true light there might be shine into the hearts and lives of men. All it takes to see this is a little thinking—that's all. Read the record. Ask yourself if it is reasonable to believe that the mighty Maker of this universe ever sent an angel down to the wife of a Syrian Jew who later become the mother of a whole flock of children, to tell her that shortly she would be with child without natural means, and the father of the child would be the holy ghost, and the child itself would be god—a one-third of god—and a man all at the same time. The holy ghost didn't come into existence until long after Christ was dead and buried, and then he was purely and simply an origination of the church. And the Greek church today was one of the churches which put a different interpretation on the holy ghost from the other churches. Think of it once more, friends—and then ask yourself whether or not you think people in this country think for themselves. Less than 400 years ago, and 1500 years after the death of Christ, before the church had decided what was the Word of God. And then think of the caliber of bloody murdering brutes who decided what was and what was not this wonderful "word of god." Probably right after the Council of Trent they celebrated by burning alive a few hundred of their fellow-men and women. And yet the bible plainly teaches "witchcraft." And so I say there is a little life among the dead bones. What will happen is this—the church is going to either have to deny and refute me or it is going to have to admit that what I am saying is true. And I'm not fool enough to say it if it isn't the truth, I promise you that. But the church is going to have to face me in this issue, and it's going to have to do it before long too. My radio activities are expanding. The "church" knows I'm alive, and capable of exposing it nationally and internationally, and it had better get its evidence together and be prepared to submit it to the public, for I shall never rest until this marvelous land of ours knows something of what a religious fraud and fake the present systems of religion are. Not one single solitary reasonable thing in their teachings. Their whole system of religion founded in the times of the dark ages and the Inquisitions. Their bible utterly incapable of proof. They have lots of arguments as to "why" it is the word of God, but no proofs. And in a court of law the arguments come after the proofs or the evidence has been submitted. Not a single authentic original manuscript in existence, nor has there ever been known to exist such manuscripts. And as I say—the church had better get ready to begin to fight—for I'm going the limit. Every great religious movement has had its inception in a man who had the guts to get out of the crowd and stand alone. And I have those said intestinal organs. But better than all—I know the real power of the real God—and in that power—I stand alone—I stand safe—and not a hair of my head shall be harmed. And before I am through, the famous "christian church" will lay at my feet, a bleeding carcass. And the vultures will hover over head, and those who hate to give up their first-love will hover over the carcass. And then—replacing this rotten fraudulent "church" structure, will rise a grand, a glorious structure, which not only knows the real God, but which can demonstrate His power every moment of the lay. No more "prayer-meetings." No more unscrupulous "church-promoters" robbing the people with a cock-and-bull story to feather their own nests. No. No more of that. But when the real power of the real God is known—the United States will lead the rest of the world into the revelation, and we shall all be there to celebrate the burial (it's already dead now) of the faker which for so long masqueraded on the earth as an Agent of God. So be prepared for a new revelation of a real God, and take your support away from the structure that is teaching the "fake" god—the church.

A Spokane person, trying to discredit us over the air last Sunday night, said that constant repetition of words and sentences did no good. Shortly after we heard his congregation repeating, "I believe in God the Father Almighty, etc.," anw we just wondered whether he meant what he said or not.

THE "PSYCHIANA" BROTHERHOOD

So insistent has been the demand for advanced Lessons in Dr. Robinson's teaching, that we have brought into existence The "PSYCHIANA" BROTHERHOOD.

Many who send for our literature are unable to avail themselves of the large course "PSYCHIANA" on account of its price. We are sorry that we must charge for it but we see no other way to send this message out and still be in a sound financial position, without a charge.

The "BROTHERHOOD," however, answers the question, as the membership fee is very small, and the dues are only $2.00 per month. The members receive a Lecture every second week, and yet the cost is less than half what it was on the large course. Membership may be dropped at any time by simply not remitting the dues, and there is no legal contract as before.

Taken all in all, I am very happy that the BROTHERHOOD is now in existence, and I invite you all to study with me. I will see if I can't give you some of the deeper truths of a REAL LIVING GOD-POWER, which can actually DO THINGS FOR US HERE AND NOW.

Cordially,

FRANK B. ROBINSON.

.....DR. ROBINSON AT CONSOLE OF HIS PIPE-ORGAN.....

Dr. Robinson's life is a busy one. A few of his duties consist of the answering daily of many letters from students, members of the Brotherhood, writing all the material for this magazine, writing for other magazines, preparing and delivering radio addresses, filling engagements on the lecture platform, and attending to the business end of this world movement. The above Geneva pipe-organ was installed in Dr. Robinson's home recently, and from it, in what few moments of relaxation he gets, he derives much inspiration and pleasure. The organ will shortly be put "on the air" with Dr. Robinson at the console, in the interests of "PSYCHIANA." The instrument is a very beautiful one, and was purchased through Balcom & Provorse of Seattle, Wash. The complete installation was made by Mr. J. Riley Chase, organ engineer of Spokane. At nine o'clock almost every evening Dr. Robinson sits at this organ, and he requests that his students and followers send to him at that hour, a silent "prayer-thought." It will help, and he in turn will reciprocate.

WANTED---ANOTHER MOSES

New Haven, Conn., June 1.—"The United States is waiting for some unexpected Moses to lead it out of the shadows of the present depression back into the sunshine of prosperity," the Rev. Samuel Trexler, of New York City, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, declared to-night in a sermon opening the annual convention of the synod, which will be in session at Trinity Lutheran church here until Thursday evening". The above appeared in the newspapers of even date. The headline given to it was this: "Church Is Limping—Has Grown Into an 'Efficiency Machine'—'Whole World is Baffled'—Unexpected Moses is Awaited," etc.

Dr. Trexler placed the blame on the church. He said "it is limping along because, although it has adopted every new human invention, it has not attended sufficiently to its real business of proclaiming the gospel. "We are part of the world that is baffled," said the worthy doctor. "We are waiting for some unexpected Moses to lead us out of the darkness into the light." Then he said, "Every Christian congregation should be a leaven, a light. Here is the flood of lawlessness crushing down upon us with the irresistible force of an avalanche. What are we Christians going to do to dam it, or change its direction?"

In almost every convention of the churches of every denomination held, the same old story is told. In the same issue of the paper is another big headline. This one states "Church is Critically Ill," and Dr. Ainslee, addressing the World Convention of the Disciples of Christ said further: "The churches are no factors as churches amongst the nations for the establishment of good-will, because they have not learned to practice good-will amongst themselves. The churches are losing out and they will continue to lose out until their ethical standards of brotherhood are beyond where they are now." Speaking further the good brother said, "There is no greater scandal in creation than the fact that we have 215 differing denominations, and each acting as if it were the only church in the world."

Scarcely a week passes that one cannot see similar articles in the leading dailies. Also the national magazines are full of debates, questionings, etc., as to what is going to become of the "church." In fact it is a well-known fact that either something must happen to wake it up, or it must die. I want to answer Dr. Trexler in a few sentences, and show that brother where he means well, but where another Moses is not what is wanted. We have had one too many "Moses'" already. We don't want any more of them. What we do want, is men who can upset the pagan teachings of the Moses we did have. And this church structure, Dr. Trexler included, should be utterly ashamed of itself for ever attempting to have you and I believe such absolute tomy-rot as Moses taught. I wish I had the time and the space—I certainly would like to show Dr. Trexler a few things which have resulted from the "Moses" story. For all, and everything that Moses ever did, was to bring into existence, among a bunch of shepherders, a system of theology which is as pagan as hell itself is pagan. Taking advantage of the sheer ignorance and credulity of that nomadic band of roving Arabs, this Moses gentleman foisted on them one of the most impossible fairy-yarns I have ever listened to.

For sheer audacity, it beats anything I have ever heard. He says that the mighty Maker of this universe met him one day on the top of a mountain, and in a ball of fire in a burning bush, and then and there gave him a code of laws which were to govern the "Children of Israel." That is the story he told them. And, of course, being ignorant, they believed it. We of today, however, know that that story, which smacks of quite a similarity to the Joseph Smith story, and the Chrishna story—never happened. We know that the code of laws this old fellow had, was copied from another old code which was in existence long before hairy old Moses was ever heard of. As a matter of fact, we also know that brother Moses did not even give us the code of laws. Nor indeed did he write the Pentateuch at all, as the church claims he did. However—fictioneer Moses tells us that "'Yah-veh' gave unto him (Moses) two tables of stone written with the finger of God." (Ex. 31.18.) Do you believe that? I ask you. At any rate, Moses, whether like Noah—drunk, or not, fell down and broke these tables of stone and so had to make another trip up into the mountain, get the same finger of god, and get some more "tablets." It is interesting to note that the last of these wonderful "god-finger-written" testimonials, wound up with—"Thou shalt not boil a kid in its mother's milk." (Ex. 34.26.) Wonderful. You shall not boil a kid in its mother's milk. And this is one of the things the mighty intelligence which caused this marvelous earth and the entire planetary system with its billions of planets billions of light years away, told hairy old Moses to write down. No—Mr. Trexler—we don't want another Moses with such cock-and-bull stories as this one. If it hadn't have been for the old forger the world would be a far better place to live in than it is today. So don't insult our intelligence by telling us that we want another one. If you do send us another one, however, for the love of Mike have him give us a reasonable story, for just between you and I and the gatepost, we are not interested in boiling kids in their mother's milk.

However, Moses was not successful in securing the finger of "Yah-veh" for the second load of slabs. For some reason or other "Yah-veh" did not write them, but Moses did. After 40 days spent with "Yah-veh" without anything to eat or drink (Ex. 24.28) he brought the tables of stone down and gave to the people what he had written. And the chances are many to one that hairy old Moses wrote all that was ever written. The story of the broken slabs—well—you know—it's more than likely that all the writings there ever were, came from brother Moses and were not written by the "finger of "Yah-veh," for the simple reason that "Yah-veh" hasn't got any fingers. The entire story, however, is so pregnant with murder, rape, bloodshed, that I don't believe, Dr. Trexler, we want any more of that sort of stuff. Do you? Honestly now, Dr. Trexler—weren't you just talking to hear yourself talk? I think so. For what possible use that sort of an individual could be to this wonderful United States of America (which you parsons won't fight for) I fail to see.

Nor do we need any other character taken from the bible (except one) to help straighten this old world out. If you will take the church and its pagan teachings and its forged, heathen god out of the world, that will do more than any other one thing to straighten it up. That's pretty plain speaking, isn't it, Dr. Trexler? But it's what I mean. For you haven't got one single solitary leg to stand on as far as evidence of your cock-and-bull story goes. And the public should know it. And they will know it; for I'm going to tell them. I am going to tell the people all over the world just exactly what your bible and your church is, and moreover, what it has done to date. And then I'm going to leave it to the public whether or not it tolerates much longer, such a structure in its midst. You've got a man on the job, Dr. Trexler, that will lead the church where she belongs, but he isn't another Moses—he's a far more valuable and useful man than he ever was. Moses pumped the people full of lies—I'm going to tell them the truth. And before another 20 years have passed over my head, Mr. Trexler, we shall see whether or not your structure is good or evil.

Whenever and wherever the bible and religion have full sway, there has always been found such a spiritual darkness that it is abhorrent when we look back upon those times. And the reason this marvelous America today leads the world, is not on account of its 215 differing systems of religion, but because of its religious freedom. It is because that infidel Gouverneur Morris, who drafted our far-famed Constitution, once and for all purposely omitted from this sacred document all reference to a god. They wanted you and I to be free. And they knew we could not be free with any church organization hounding men and women to death with their asinine theories and dogmas. And they put the kibosh on that sort of stuff forever in America. Infidels played a far more important part in the freedom of America than the church ever did; and while our forefathers were fighting for liberty, the church was hanging people up by the neck on Boston Commons for stating that they did not believe in the inspiration of the bible. I know where there's another one that doesn't believe it—and that isn't afraid to come right out and say so. What this country wants, reader, is the truth. What you want is the truth. What I want is the truth. And thank the living God we are living in a country which will not tolerate the interference by the church with any of her citizens. And that is the reason the hands of the church are tied. That is the reason we are living in as wonderful a land as we are; not because of the church, but in spite of it. This is pretty plain talking—but it cannot be refuted. And if the "laity" want the truth about the bible and its god, they surely get it in this magazine. And the funny part of it all is that 95% of the thinking Americans think and believe as the writer does. To the writer has fallen the burden of exposing the false and replacing it with the true, as far as God goes, and naturally the church and its leaders don't like it. That's just too bad. They are on the wrong side of the fight, however, to be successful. For although God will not cause the sun to stand still or anything on that order to help me in my fight for righteousness, it must follow as the night the day that I shall win and be overwhelmingly successful. For with me are scientific facts. With me is the truth of God—revealed to me—not to an old shepherd 3500 years ago, but to a man who has the training, the ability (I hope) and the intestinal stamina to carry this fight to the very doors of the church. And truth invariably wins. You may crush it to earth—and it will rise again. For no matter how many "holy ghosts" the church has, and no matter how many Moses' it has, it is false in essence and so will fall.

So I suggest to Dr. Trexler, and the rest of the uncomfortable parsons and priests, that they look for someone else than Moses to get them out of the stew they have gotten themselves in. Probably a subscription to this magazine might help some of them.

BIBLE FACTS ALL SHOULD KNOW

1. There has never been known to exist one single MSS. covering the New Testament. All that exists are "copies" and "copies of copies." These "copies" are absolutely anonymous, and no one knows where they came from. They are all unsigned, undated, and did not appear until the end of the second century after Christ. They were "found" in the possession of the church. For 1,000 years new "copies" were added to the "divine" canon. This is all the evidence the church has that the bible story was written by "holy men of God who wrote by divine inspiration." And this is not evidence at all.

2. Belief in the "divinity" of Christ was unknown until the second century after his time. His brothers and sisters did not believe in his magical claims and they knew him personally and lived with him. If they did not believe these claims then how can you be expected to believe them 2,000 years after.

3. Not a single eye-witness to the supposed "miracles" of Christ has ever been known to exist. No one saw the resurrection. No one saw the marvelous miracles he was supposed to have performed. Not a single historian out of the 300 of that age, makes the slightest allusion to Christ. Josephus, Pliny, Tacitus, all writing in that age, in that country, and at that date, and all living practically on the spot where these miraculous things happened, these famous authentic historians, while chronicling in detail every event which happened in that land at that time—make positively no mention of such a man. This is proof that no amount of logic or argument can overthrow.

4. The title to the four "gospels" are forgeries. They were added to perfectly anonymous "copies" of "what someone remembered" by the church. The church gets around this by quoting them as "the gospel according to" so and so. This they claim is not misleading. But it is very misleading in the face of the fact that there is not the slightest evidence that either Matthew, Mark, Luke or John ever had anything to do with writing those supposed "gospels."

5. That the bible story of the Christ is an exact copy of the story of Chrishna who lived 1200 years before Christ. The root words of "Christ" and "Chrishna" are the same. There is evidence in existence that the name Chrishna was changed to Christ and there is also much evidence that the two stories are one and the same.

6. There had been in existence, long before Christ was ever heard of, sixteen other crucified "saviors" of the world. They all were born of "virgins." They all rose from the dead. They all came to "save people from their 'sins'." Any bible scholar of experience knows that there is more forgery, more interpolation, and more mistakes and more murder to the square inch in the bible than there is in any other book ever written.

7. The present bible was not given to us until 1647, and was then given to us by popular vote of a bunch of "church bishops." A terrible curse was then and there placed on all who would not believe that this canon of scripture, then given, was the divinely inspired "word of god" to the exclusion of all other "words of god." By this we see that it took the church 1500 years to decide what was the word of God.

8. Less than 200 years ago, the Holy Inquisition was operating with full force. Authorities give the number punished by this "Hoiy Body" as about 300,000. These authorities state that probably from 35,000 to 40,000 of these sufferers were burned alive at the stake. All this was done by the "holy church" and on the authority of the "holy bible." There has been more bloodshed, more murder, more war, through the effects of "religion" and the "bible" than through any other cause.

9. The "church" has on exhibition, a finger and the tail-feathers of the Holy Ghost. It has 32 different sets of teeth from the child Jesus. It has in little vials, tears shed by the virgin Mary, and has her petticoats also. There is in existence, according to the "church," which gave us our present bible and system of religion, stones on which the "imprint of the little bottom of the Lord Jesus" is very plainly to be seen. There is enough wood from the cross of Christ in existence to build two or three more Noah's arks. (See Forgeries in Christianity—by Joseph Wheless. Published by A. Knopf Co., New York.)

10. Two of the oldest bible writers and church historians made a bitter attack on the dogma that Christ died on the cross. They state very specifically that he died in bed at a ripe old age. There is much evidence besides these two writers to prove this. Even the bible story disproves that statement, for it states that after he was dead, blood flowed from the wound in his side. If it did, then Jesus did not die on the cross or the bible story is a lie. Ask your physician how much blood can flow from a dead man.

11. There are so many conflicting stories told of the birth, advent, resurrection of Christ, as well as of the ascension, that it is utterly impossible to know which is true. Even if the historians did mention any of the "marvelous" facts connected with this man, even then we could not know which to believe of the many differing stories told. You may depend upon it, however, that if a few score of skeletons got out of their graves, if the earth trembled, if Christ was crucified, if he rose from the dead, if every baby under two was killed, if these things be facts, history's pages would be red with it. Chapters and chapters would be devoted to it. But not one single direct or indirect reference to it in any authentic history of that time. It could not and did not happen.

12. The books considered "divine" and worthy of a place in the canon, were but a very small part of hundreds of similar parchments then in existence. They are not in the "canon" because of "divine" origin, but their being placed in the "canon" or bible, by the church, that fact makes them "divine." No other fact. If these same men would burn alive heretics at the stake in the name of God, what sort of authority do you think they had to classify any of these old writings as either "divine" or not "divine." But these old parchments were admitted to the canon on the say-so of these old murderers, and the church asks us to accept today this bible, on the authority of these same "fathers." This is mighty slim authority. In fact it is not authority at all. It's pagan superstition. But millions of souls are depending for life or death on what is taught in this book, which is so patently a complete forgery and a complete edition of the greatest piece of religious fraud and humbuggery ever foisted upon an intelligent race.

13. Many old writings, of the same identical origin as those in the "canon" now, were omitted from the "sacred scriptures" because the stories told of Jesus in them, "might not be believed, as they seem so contrary to nature."

14. All of the other several Christian sects which flourished near those times, as the Corinthians, the Carpocratians, etc., utterly reject the story told by the Christians pertaining to the miracles attending the life of Christ. They lived then and there, and should know.

15. None of those narrating the supposed "resurrection" from the tomb, ever claim to have seen it. Nor did they ever find anyone who did see it. All the record says about it is—"It came to pass." Matthew XXIII states that when the report of these miraculous happenings reached the disciples' ears—"some doubted." And well they might. The thought here however is this: if the very followers of Christ at that time would not believe the impossible story, then how can you and I believe it? Especially in the face of the overwhelming evidence that it never happened. Outside of "church" history, written of course by the church, no one ever mentions Christ or his miracles or his crucifixion or his resurrection. You cannot find the Mormon story in American history neither; for American histories do not believe, in fact they know, that no "angel" came from the sky to New York State in the 19th century. Consequently the only reference to the Mormon church that appears in authentic American history, is the story of their migration from the east to Utah—which is a fact. Only Mormon church history will tell the "Moroni" story. The same thing applies to Christianity and the bible. Only the church writings tell of these wonderful things. Nowhere else are they mentioned.

16. We have four "gospels" because animals have four legs. This is the exact reason that four, and only four gospels were put into the canon. And the preachers still believe, or rather tell us to believe that it is the divinely inspired "word of God." Maybe it is—and maybe again it isn't.

17. The bible and religion have consistently opposed every finding of science, even burning alive and to death, many of those who gave us scientific facts which have revolutionized the world. They should have been crowned with honor, but the church burned them alive, because their theories "conflicted with the sacred scriptures." Only when the truth of these scientific theories and discoveries was abundantly proved, then and only then did the church recede. It has never yet gone back on its pagan teachings until science has proven them to be untrue. Then, it tells us that these things are only to be taken figuratively. But it does not tell us that until science disproves "holy writ." This same "holy writ" said the earth had four corners, and therefore the theory that it was round was wrong. If it was round, then how could be people on the other side of it see Christ when he came back from the skies? But Columbus and Magellan proved that it was round, and then the church told us the bible was not to be taken on that point literally. They also informed us that it was not a text-book on geology anyhow.

18. It has always been the policy of the followers of the bible to keep people in absolute ignorance concerning bible history and the history of comparative religions. There are books in existence which compare the bible myths with the myths of other religions. And it is not possible for any clear-thinking man to read such books as Kersey Graves "The World's 16 Crucified Saviors" and not see immediately just what this bible story is and is not. But the church will not tell people of these books. Nor will it even tell the simple plain facts connected with its "canon." If it did, the thing would disintegrate inside of one year. And the people would be mighty sore too over the way they have been fooled. Four "divinely inspired" writers tell the story of the resurrection, and not a single one of them telling the same story, etc. It is about time that the church was made to prove the truth or falsity of their preachments. It will have to prove them or I shall disprove them. For I believe the time has come when the truth should be told the people. They are ready for it. They want it. And they will get it. For never was there a time when so many thinkers were concentrating on the question of god and religion. And, as ever, history is repeating itself. What was considered the truth 100 years ago is absolute error today. But out of all this so-called "infidelity and atheism" is rising a world picture of the real God as He exists. It will take a little time of course. But the picture is in the making. First—the rotten lies and dogmas of the church must be exposed, and they must be fearlessly exposed. For it is impossible to build the true structure until the remnants of the false structure have been removed. These remnants are cluttering the ground now. We shall remove them. And to repeat—in the same place where once stood a pagan heathen structure masquerading as "god's divine church," will stand a living monument to the Living God. A true church—invisible—made without hands. One where men may go and come at will, and partake of the bounteous glories of the sweet Spirit of the Living God himself. May God hasten the day.

THE END OF THE WEST

Out where the North Pacific's waves
Ceaselessly dash on a thousand isles,
Out where the little brown Aleute braves
Are yet unspoiled by the white man's wiles,
There is a place for an eager quest,
And hand grips hand at the end of the West.

Out where the halibut fisherman seeks Uncharted banks for his baited trawls,
Out where the sea otter hunter speaks
With anxious breath as a night bird calls,
You will find the men who know the test
Of manhood's strength at the end of the West.

Oh, give me again my sea otter gun,
Or my boat and trawl, or a salmon net:
Oh give me the joy of the wild free run
Of the ocean roads, and a spray that's wet:
Out where you find strong men at their best,
'Mid sunlit isles at the end of the West.

—From "Beyond the Skyline,"
by Edward Cone.

Have you read "America Awakening" yet? The book is causing a holy riot among the orthodox church members. It speaks too plainly to suit them. It tells too much truth. "The God Nobody Knows" is written in a much easier vein. It's a more constructive book, and will suit those who do not like "direct action."

GIVE GOD THE BURDEN

If on God you cast the burden,
Cast on Him your pain and care,
Give to Him all anxious trouble,
Take it to the Lord in prayer,
You will find that in the yielding
Of the burden on the road,
There will be an end to grieving
When you learn to shift the load.

When on God your burden's resting,
When you learn to cast aside
Every load and seeming trouble
And, in Him, to rest, abide,
You will find that in your living
You discover peace and ease;
At each turn upon the highway
Something comes to you to please.

Having cast on Him the burden,
Prayerfully your needs made known,
Go your way in sweet rejoicing,
For you travel not alone.
At your side the unseen Savior,
Would relieve you from all care;
Hand to Him the heavy burden,
Whisper all your needs in prayer.

—Quoted from "Unity."

We wonder what the Galilean Carpenter would say if he knew the crimes which are being committed today in His fair name. What a pity he couldn't come back for about six months. Seems to us it would make an awful change for the better.

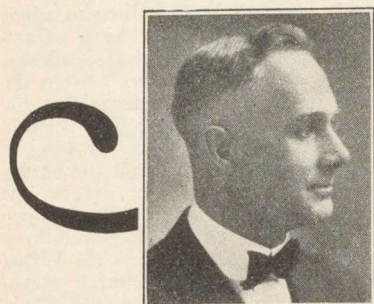

Don't be afraid to play or work with the mighty Spirit Life that gave you life in the first place. If He was capable of giving you life, He is also infinitely capable of sustaining it.

Before we had the Brotherhood actually started, memberships began to roll in. It's uncanny how everything we do is successful right from the start. It only proves the power behind Dr. Robinson and his message though.

Questions & answers

Conducted by Dr. Frank B. Robinson.

QUESTION: Will Jesus Christ ever return to this earth?

ANSWER: No, Jesus Christ will never return to this earth, for dead men have a uniform habit of staying dead. It may be that in the evolution of time, we shall discover that death is not a necessity. We know now that it is not natural, and I am of the very strong opinion that we shall shortly discover that it is not necessary either. When that fact is discovered, if it is discovered, we shall, with that discovery, find a much more beautiful existence right here on this earth. It is not beyond the bounds of either reason or possibility. Scientific minds are all running along this channel, and a person absolutely cannot say that it cannot be. For in the final analysis of things it not only can be, but must be. Therein lies the answer to the whole problem. But as far as Jesus Christ ever coming back goes, he never will. For never was he more than a man, "even as you and I." True, the pagan traditions made a god out of him, but they also did that to countless hundreds of others also. In fact it was the custom in those days to do just that. It's passing strange that belief in the divinity of Jesus did not originate until hundreds of years after he had passed away. His own parents knew nothing about it. He knew nothing about it. He never claimed to be God. What he actually was, was a man born ahead, away ahead of his time. He should be living today in the midst of hypocrisy masquerading as "agents of God." He would find plenty to do I assure you. What you had better do is to let the same Life Spirit—God—which animated Jesus, animate you. That Carpenter Man knew God, and he knew Him plenty. He was so saturated with the power of God that he knew how to use it for every purpose. And he had no monopoly on that power at all. It's yours, and mine, and everybody else's just as quick as they discard pagan superstition and accept the real God.

QUESTION: Should we waste or use the "vital fluid" of life. Dr. ——— tells me that I should not do so but should keep strictly celibate. Is he right?

ANSWER: No he is not right. He is wrong. In the first place the prime purpose of life is to transmit life. If that function is denied, then you will suffer. How many people do I know who could have a wonderful spiritual experience if they only would lead normal, healthy lives. But this reason or that reason prevents them from fulfilling their God-given functions in life, and they suffer and are unable to explain what is the matter with them. Then again, there is no joy in this world like the joy of a home with two or three little nippers running round in it. The joy of creation—the joy of fulfilling the law of God. Any teaching which tells you to subjugate the life-giving tendencies is a very false teaching, and is usually only advanced by one who is incapable of doing so himself. As fast as you reasonably use the "vital fluid" of life, nature replaces it. If you do not use it, nature does not replace it and you are losing your blessings by so doing. A healthy sex-life is a normal thing and I have no use for the doctrine or system that says that we should not live that sort of a life. It won't be long now until the "Holy Father" in Rome will be issuing a "pronunciamento" or something on that order, giving the priests the right to marry. This brother, having the power of God, has that right of course, and I am of the opinion that this will shortly be done. For if ever there was an asinine theory, and a dark age theory at that, it is this ungodly theory of priestly celibacy. Most of them, however, are only celibate on the surface. They usually find some way or other to satisfy their natural cravings. That is if they are men at all.

QUESTION: Shall I send my 9-year-old son to church and Sunday school?

ANSWER: Please yourself. If you think he will be happy there, send him, but be sure that he doesn't believe the "inbred sin and damnation stories" on which the church is founded. I have a son 8 years of age. My policy is this. If he wants to go to Sunday school, I let him go. I never make him go. Usually he never misses a Sunday. But whenever he asks me a question, I answer him truthfully as I can. For instance, the other day he pulled me into a corner of the garage and said, "Daddy—Are there angels?" I told him there were no angels. "But Daddy—I saw a picture in Sunday school and there were angels with wings on them." Then I went into some detail explaining the old story of angels, and very plainly told that little sweetheart of mine that angels only existed in fairy stories. I told him that he did not need angels to carry his thoughts to God. I explained to him that God sustained him every moment of his life, and God was the power that gave him life, etc. And the little fellow saw it. Now, in 1,000 years you couldn't have made this little fellow believe in angels unless he saw them. You might think you had him believe it but as a matter of fact you would not.

A few weeks ago, the teacher in Sunday school was telling him the story of the fig-tree being cursed by Christ for not bringing forth fruit out of season. Alfred held up his hand and asked the teacher this question: "Do you want me to believe that Jesus did that or is it only another fairy-story?" The teacher informed him that it was in the Bible and therefore true. Alfred is a persistent little bugger though, and he repeated the question as to whether or not the teacher really meant that this actually happened. Once more she impressed upon him that it did happen in reality. "Well," replied Alfred, "that's a good one for Ripley—I think I'll send it in." So you see the reaction of present day youth to any and all impossible stories. They just simply don't believe them. And this is the reason the church has to either get out of the picture, or change its story. They usually change, however, when they see the shekels being diverted from their pockets into someone else's, so it wouldn't surprise me any to see the churches enter into competition with the picture shows on Sunday and show regular wild west pictures. They have to do something.

If your child wants to go to Sunday school, for the company of the other kids, then let him go. But if he ever asks you about the teachings given to him there, you can tell him the truth. If the Sunday school is teaching him lies, then tell him so. You can be safe in telling him not to believe anything that he cannot reasonably accept. Now, as Cadman would say, "Next." And here it is. A good one.

This student asks: Are you the only man in existence who is advancing the theories you are advancing?

ANSWER: Not by a long shot. Thinking minds the world over are all teaching the falsity of the church and Bible stories. They know it has been utterly discredited. I probably am the only one who has the foundation and the courage to take the bull by the horns and get right out on the firing-line over the radio, etc., and carry the battle right to the door of the church. But never you think that I am the only one that knows the facts I am teaching. Of course, I have my own peculiar way of doing things and putting things, but men and women the wide world over are doubting the Bible story, and doubting it good and plenty. And here I will answer a criticism which is often directed at me. That criticism is that I am a little too hot against the church. All right—here's the reason. For years the church told me an utterly false story, and it kept me on pins and needles with its story of hell-fire and damnation. It came pretty nearly ruining me, both morally, mentally, and every other way. So I have no love in my heart for it at all. And I am doing everything I can to try and stop it doing for other boys what it did for me. I would hate to see very many boys go through what I did, only to discover that the whole thing is only a cock-and-bull story which absolutely cannot be proven. There is no direct evidence that Jesus Christ ever lived, although I am willing to admit that He did. Nor is there any evidence of any of the wonderful happenings the church asks us to believe. I sort of wish there were. On the other hand there is a mass of evidence that the whole thing is nothing more nor less than a wholesale church forgery, and I can prove that. There is much evidence of that. And the beauty of it all is that people are getting wise to the whole structure, and it's going into the ash-can where it belongs. But it will be replaced by a nobler structure which actually knows the Living God. This power, of course, the church cannot know, for it has an idol of its own—old "Yah-veh" of the Jews. The same old fellow that committed so many murders in days gone by. I think the day is at hand, however, when the church will discard this old pagan, and really and actually find and know God.

QUESTION: Are you not afraid the church will crucify you as it did Jesus?

ANSWER: I am afraid of nothing. Not even the church. For in the last analysis, if the church did try to openly oppose me and stop me, I should immediately get out on the lecture platform, and if I haven't got enough facts to eternally shut it up, then I am lost. As a matter of fact, the church knows the truth, and I know the truth, and the church knows that I know the truth. And that's enough. It knows that there isn't a single leg it has to stand on, as far as proof of its story is concerned. It knows that the statements I make over the air, in this magazine, in my books, and in articles for other magazines, are true. It knows the truth will eventually triumph. In other words, no one knows better than the church that it is fighting a losing battle. It knows that. What it is trying to do is to try to hold its head above water, get the money, and still continue to operate as an agent of God. Well, this it will never be able to do. For in this transitional age in which we are living, there is a sentiment abroad which cannot be squelched. That sentiment is against all "supernaturally revealed religion."

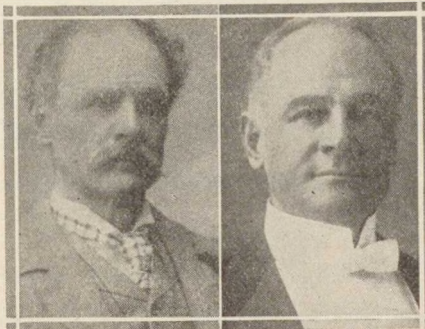

As far as I personally am concerned, I am pretty well covered all the time, and even if some fanatic should take a shot at me, he might find that I am as fast on the trigger as he is. I don't think any other attempt would be made though, outside of some religious fool or fanatic. Of course there are lots of them left yet, as my mail shows. But you forget one thing, sister—you forget that I know in whom I believe, and He that is for me is far greater than all that can be against me. So you need not worry any about me getting it where the chicken got the axe. I am pretty well informed of all church movements against me, and it might surprise them to know how much of their activities I know. And so, forewarned is forearmed. There are honest men in the church, however, and about half of it believes eye to eye with me—so why the opposition? It's only the "orthodox" who actively oppose me. And you know what an "orthodox" person is don't you?—well, orthodoxy just means "gullibility," that's all.

An Old Man at Fifty--- A Young Man at Seventy

The Remarkable Story of Sanford Bennett, a Former San Francisco Business Man, Who Solved the Problem of Prolonging Youth

By V. O. SCHWAB

THERE is no longer any occasion to go hunting for the Spring of Eternal Youth. What Ponce de Leon failed to discover ages ago, has been brought to light by Sanford Bennett, a former San Francisco business man. He proved it, too, right in his own person. At 50 he was partially bald. At 70 he had a thick head of hair. At 50 his eyes were weak. At 70 they were as strong as when he was a child. At 50 he was a worn-out wrinkled, brokendown, decrepit old man. His cheeks were sunken, his face drawn and haggard, his muscles atrophied. Thirty years of chronic dyspepsia had resulted in catarrh of the stomach. He was rheumatic. At 70 he was in perfect health, young as the average man of 35. All this he accomplished by some very simple, gentle exercises practiced for ten minutes before arising in the morning. Mr. Bennett's case was not one of preserving health, but one of rejuvenating a weak, middle-aged body into a robust old one! Anyone can accomplish this by application of the methods fully explained in the book, "Old Age—Its Cause and Prevention," which contains complete instruction for those who wish to use his health-and-youth building methods.

"THE GOD NOBODY KNOWS"

DR. FRANK B. ROBINSON'S
REVOLUTIONARY BOOK,

This book is creating a sensation among so-called "Christian" people as Dr. Robinson denies in this book that the "Church" as it exists today, knows anything at all about the Real God as He exists. Dr. Robinson claims that there is in existence a God about which the "Church" knows absolutely nothing. He believes that the God the church preaches is a traditional and human-made God, a million miles removed from the real God as He actually exists and operates. Dr. Robinson believes that the New Psychology, in teaching the "subconscious mind" has come a step short of the actual truth as it exists. He believes there is in existence in this world, an unseen power—so dynamic in itself that all other powers and forces fade into insignificance beside it. He believes

There is in Existence a God the Church Knows Nothing About

Keen of mind, brilliant of intellect, and remarkably in earnest, Dr. Robinson in this book has taken off his gloves and, with a daring seldom equalled, has tackled the tangled question of "GOD." He has certainly called a spade a spade and has tried very hard to show who and what "GOD" actually is. If Dr. Robinson is correct in his reasoning, then the entire world is living in utter ignorance of the most dynamic power ever seen—the Power of God. He believes that there is absolutely no right thing which this mighty power of God cannot give to those who know how to take it right here and now. The Doctor does not believe that we have to wait till we get to "heaven" to know God—and the fullness of His power and His ability and willingness to give us the things our hearts desire. He believes we may know Him and obtain these desired things while on this earth. THE BOOK SELLS FOR $5.00. The available copies of it will be sent to those desiring it in the order of their applications.
